Elizabeth - Forward High School Elizabeth, Pennsylvania

Sixth Edition

Foreword

As this, the sixth edition of the Eli-Mon seeks its place in history, the memory of our carefree days in high school remain forever. The joys and sorrows, hopes and fears we experienced as we struggled to mature in wisdom, skill, and leadership are clearly depicted in the following pages. The interest and activity shown by students in the various organizations tend to cultivate their ability to become the future leaders of the nation. The wisdom shown toward our academic subjects offers endless opportunities to those wishing to succeed in the business world. Skill in competitive sports promotes clear thinking, a strong character, and good sportsmanship which are essential in every phase of our everyday life. These and many other fine characteristics are typical of the students at E.-F. H. S. As we weave the pattern of our lives, we should keep in mind the words of a wise old philosopher who once said, "Work hard, play hard, and lead a good life; for who knows what the future may hold."

Miss Virginia W. Redman

Dedication

Through our four years of high school we have become well acquainted with our guidance counselor, Miss Virginia Redman. She has given us wise guidance and has proved capable in helping us undertake difficult problems which have confronted us. She has served as a source of strength in helping us to make decisions.

Miss Redman has a deep interest in the students of our school, and she always tries to give advice to all, to the best of her ability. She is interested in seeing that the graduates of Elizabeth-Forward High School will undertake the right vocation as they step into the future so that the school will be proud of them. She helps to secure information for students planning to go to college, so that they will have the necessary qualifications to enroll in that college. Another of her contributions to the students is her promotion of scholarships.

The friendly smile with which she greets us, gives us assurance that she is a friend as well as a person we can respect, and she wants us to accept her not only as a faculty member, but also as a friend.

We, the graduating class of 1957, wish to express our deepest gratitude and appreciation by dedicating our 1957 Eli-Mon to Miss Redman, a woman who gives a helping hand to students of every race, color, and creed. We hope to have her as a friend for many years to come.

Seniors - Planning The Blueprint

Mrs. Alice Keeler, advisor, Class of '57

Front: Janet Marraccini. Back: Jim Stragand, Sara Spate, Charlie Bakewell.

Of The Future

As the long-awaited Graduation Day came ever closer, seniors began to realize that the things they did during their last year in high school would be "the stuff that dreams are made of." From the beginning of the year they realized that things were being done for the last time. Never again would they know the strange thrill of the "first day" of a high school term with all its searching for class rooms and study halls; all the greeting of old friends and meeting new students; all the sharing of past summer's experiences; and finally the buckling down to new lessons and assignments.

Home room programs were geared to post-graduation possibilities, and seniors realized with a shock that these were no longer far-away goals, but, rather, were of immediate and personal concern. The proud feeling that they were leaders in school activities was dampened somewhat by the sobering idea that all these pleasures were about over. Each dance was the last of its kind for them; school assemblies were viewed for the last time; the musicale and the senior play had taken their places in the past; and positions as club officers and publication editors were yielded to willing juniors. Football, basketball, and baseball players were honored as they played their last games for E.-F. H. S. Cheerleaders, majorettes, and band members left their jobs of morale boosting to others who would be back next year.

There were many "senior activities" such as having formal portraits made, many of which would be used as application photos, engagement poses, gifts for loving relatives, and always as reminders of how "Mary looked as she graduated from high school." Class rings were eagerly awaited and proudly worn, and name cards were scientifically distributed and exchanged. Seniors attended the prom as guests, planned and enjoyed their own banquet, distributed their '57 Eli-Mon, presented their class day program, sent out commencement announcements, read the senior issue of the "Warrior", and prepared for the day that would always be one of the important milestones in their lives.

Yes, all this was a part of a past not soon to be forgotten; but even as seniors said goodbye to these things, they looked forward eagerly to a tomorrow made brighter and better because of the four years just past.

Serious Seniors

"This physics is serious business—by television or by teacher."

"Sure, we can keep up with you, Mrs. K.; just watch us go!"

"Maybe we won't get to use the new school, but we can try out the new desks and give our expert opinion of them."

"Imagine, taking our picture just when we were so anxious to start on that new assignment!"

Juniors - Working To Fulfill Ambitions

As members of the Class of '58 the juniors have secured for themselves a place in the halls of E.-F. H. S. Through the passing years they have tackled many hard problems of life; especially those dealing with new school subjects, friends, and social events. However, they found that the hardest battle of all to win was that of gaining self-respect and confidence in their own judgment, ideas, and ideals. They have become a united group through working, studying, and socializing together. As they prepare for their senior year as the leaders of the school, they will always think of the wonderful times they experienced as juniors. They will remember the responsibilities they shared when contributing their services in many ways to the long-awaited climax of this year—the Prom.

Mr. John Leffard, advisor
Class of '59

While dreaming of their future plans, the sophomores stop to think of their present studies and activities. Yes, this is the year they are in the midst of the "goings-on" in old Betsy High. But playing an important part in the fun of parties, dances, and sports isn't enough for this class; they must also work hard and well on their many new studies. Reminiscing over the past, they realize that they, as individuals and as a class, have changed. They've changed, not only in age, but also in gaining respect and privileges. Looking toward the future, they are asking themselves, "Will the Class of '59 be as outstanding and successful as the previous classes of E.-F. H. S.?"

Freshmen - Starting Toward A Distant Goal

The first day of school had arrived, and to the class of 1960 the first big goal in their life was within reach. They could hardly realize that only three months before, they had been graduated from eleven elementary schools in the district; Axelton, Bunola, and William Penn in Forward Township; Elizabeth Borough; Wylie, Boston, Versailles, Central, Buena Vista, Industry, and Blythedale in Elizabeth Township. As they entered high school their first reaction was one of fright and confusion as they gazed at the many rooms and steps, wondering if by some miracle they would be able to learn which was which. After several confusing weeks they found that at last they had mastered their schedules and classrooms and were rapidly making friends.

Our Athletes are Victory Minded

The 1956-57 school term found 800 of our students eager to begin the sports program. Our sports history began many years ago when Betsy High sent her first players out onto the gridiron, the court, and the diamond. Under such notable coaches as Mr. Charles Storer, Mr. Joseph Furno, Mr. Orrie Rockwell, and Mr. Dean Reed, our Warriors came home with many victories.

It seemed no time at all from the crisp fall days when we watched our football players race down the field for the winning touchdown until we were jammed into the gym on a snowy winter night watching our "hoopsters" dribble the ball down the floor for two more exciting points. Then as basketball became a part of the past, we looked forward to sunny spring afternoons of baseball with its home-runs, strike-outs, and double plays.

The boys who took part in sports in the past, the boys who have participated in this year's sports program, and the boys who will be our future sports heroes have received and will continue to receive far more from their efforts than is obvious to the casual observer. The spectators see only bruises, black eyes, and fatigue; and not the inner spirit that the players have acquired.

We, as students, have seen our athletes perform ably, and now we must look to the future when the Warriors will again be victorious and will make us prouder than ever that we are students or alumni of E-F. H. S.

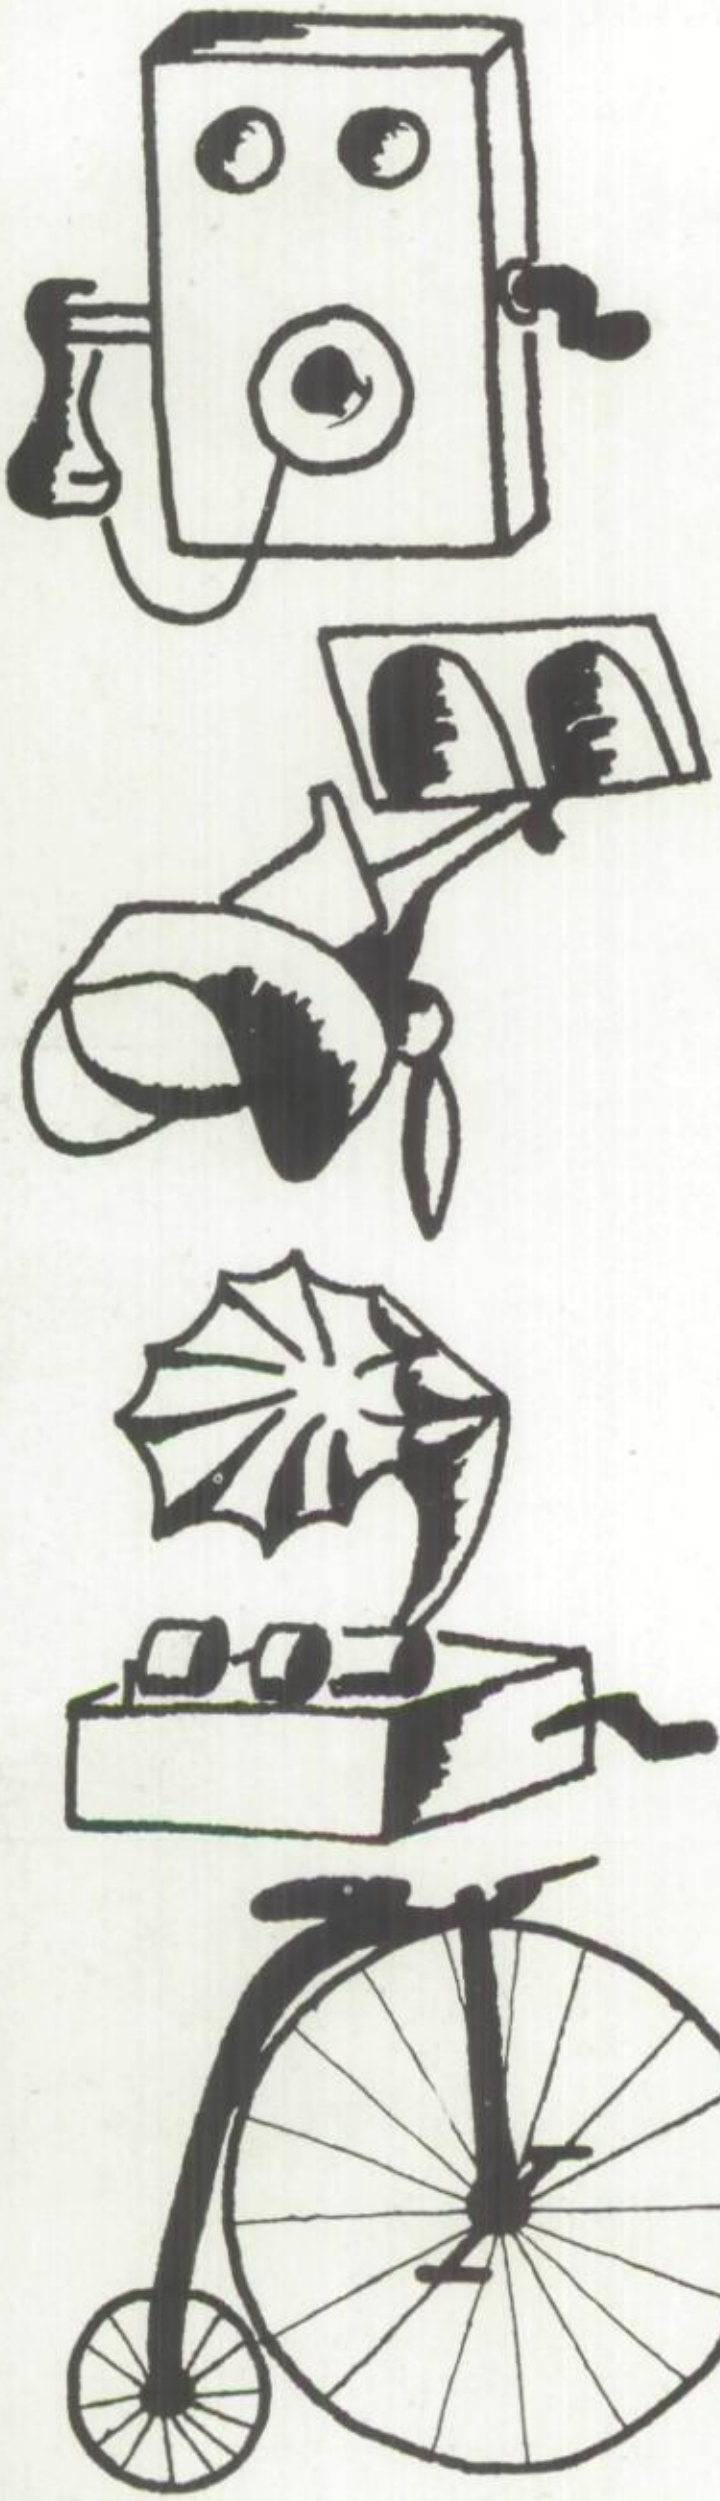
Our Activities Enrich Our Lives



When our building was first used as a high school back in the early '20's these sketched objects provided recreation and leisure time pleasure. With the passing of time, many new sources of recreation and social activity have developed. Elizabeth-Forward has kept in step with progress and this year has twenty-one different organizations from which the students may select outlets for their widely varied interests.

Those who are musically inclined become members of the Band or Chorus, and if they also like precision work they find the Majorettes or Drill Team glad to have their services. Since many students are sports-minded, there are always eager applicants for the Girls' Athletic Association and Cheerleaders; and for the boys, the Lettermen's Club is a happy choice. Students who find their greatest pleasure and satisfaction in helping others turn to the Alpha and Beta Tri-Hi-Y, Hi-Y, Library Club, and Student Council. Those seriously concerned about their future plans are found in the club for Future Homemakers and in the newly organized Future Teachers of America, Honor Society, and Commercial Club.

Those whose interests lie in various subject fields accept membership in Language Club or Science Club, while those lured by the "Fourth Estate" wind up as "Warrior" or "Eli-Mon" staff members. Those with a flair for dramatics are tapped by the National Thespians, and those seeking worthwhile use of leisure time turn to the Hobby Club.

So, although the means may change, high school students will always need and find outlets for their energies.

One bright sunny day a small boy and girl were eagerly watching the approach of the quick-stepping band as they marched down the avenue displaying their gay red and black uniforms. From that moment on, it was their dream to become members of this wonderful organization and to be able to participate in its many activities. As these children grew up, they did achieve their goal after many long tedious hours of study and practice while they strived to learn the difference between an eighth note and a "G" clef. But in the end, their efforts were worthwhile, because our band today is one of the best in the country. They display their fine talent and showmanship during the half-time performances at all the football games, and all through the game they can be heard cheering our team on to victory. Afterwards they parade the streets creating school spirit and pep throughout the community. A school without a band would truly be a very dull organization.

Among its many other activities, the band participates in the Christmas assembly, along with the Girls' Chorus and Thespians. They play the old carols so dear to the hearts of young and old. Another important feature of the year is the spring Musicale when the band shares the spotlight with the chorus. The band is also on hand to play at other school assemblies and for various other community affairs; such as the Halloween Parade and the Memorial Day Parade. A few years ago the Band Parents' Association was formed enabling the parents of band members to get together and discuss the many problems facing this organization with which they might be able to offer their guidance or financial support. The members of the band along with the B. P. A. are sponsoring many fund-raising campaigns to provide new uniforms and sweaters. The Elizabeth-Forward High School Band is certainly an organization of which all can be justly proud.

Through Language Club Good Will Is Sought

One of the most unusual and interesting clubs of the school is the Language Club composed of students who are studying or who have studied French, Latin, or Spanish. The Club purpose is to acquaint the students with the country whose language they are studying. A "C" average must be maintained in order to belong to the Club. A highlight of this years' activities was the initiation held in November. The initiates wore these appropriate head gears: the Latin students were crowned with laurel wreaths; the French students modeled berets; and the Spanish students sported sombreros. Other meetings included programs which portrayed the customs of the people of the various lands.

Student Council Reflects Student Thought

At the beginning of the year each home room elects a student council representative who attends the meetings and expresses the views of that home room about school activities. The organization meets every two weeks to plan assemblies, take care of student problems, and conduct programs to keep our school clean and neat. They try to promote good feeling on the part of the students toward each other and toward the school. Each member does his best to support and carry out a helpful program.

Librarians Seek Answers to Each Request

The Library Club of today had a very modest start. It began with only one student librarian who took care of the few books which were in the library at that time. As the library grew larger a library club was formed for students interested in librarian work. Their duties consisted at first of keeping the books dusted and in order on the shelves.

Today, the librarians have many more responsibilities. They check books in and out of the library and help students to find material needed for class work. They also help to decorate the library bulletin boards each month with appropriate displays.

Club members look forward to an enlarged library in the new school with greater facilities for helping the students with their research problems. They plan to learn different library procedures such as new methods of filing, stamping books, and arranging books on the shelves. They want to expand their monthly displays, and even publish a monthly "newsletter" which will review the new books. Members will also prepare and present to the English classes talks about new books.

These librarians are real helpers to all who earnestly seek answers to their problems.

Scientists Patiently Test and Retest

One of the oldest and most popular organizations of E.-F. H. S. is the Science Club which is affiliated with the National Science Clubs of America. The club consists of students who have an interest in science. They hold many activities throughout the year such as field trips to places of scientific interest and swimming parties at the Y.M.C.A. One of their annual projects is the entry of a float in the Halloween Parade. Their floats always carry out the club's theme of promoting science and helping people to understand better the importance of science.

The members also often enter exhibits in the Science Fair in Pittsburgh. Any student desiring to join the club must submit a letter which states his reasons for wanting to become a member. He is then voted on by members of the club. Informal initiation is held during the day followed by a party held at night for the initiates. Through participation in the activities of this group, members are inspired to gain a more thorough understanding of scientific principles.

Lettermen Give Sports Appeal

In Commercial Club Efficiency's the Key

The Commercial Club strives to promote efficiency and interest in the business world for their members by operating and learning the use of various office machines. Speakers from many business concerns are obtained to conduct lectures and demonstrations. Experienced secretaries also speak to the girls, explaining to them what a future employer may expect of them and giving them tips on how to dress and act in an office. Members visit local business offices to observe office procedures. On the social side, they sponsor dances and other activities. As the club is more fully developed we shall expect to see many of its present members in business offices practicing the rules and regulations which they learned through participation in Commercial Club activities. We shall also find that the future secretaries from E.-F. H. S. will be more skilled, efficient, and capable because of training they received in Commercial Club.

Hobby Club Promotes Leisure Activity

With the increased enrollment in E.-F. H. S. many new activities have been added to the agenda. Among them is a fascinating club known as the Hobby Club. Many students who had not found an interest in any other club became interested in the Hobby group which cffered many suggestions for leisure time activities. The members have a wide range of hobbies extnding from the fields of science, art, and literature to manual arts and homemaking. They develcp their hobbies into projects which they display for the benefit of others who might also like to find agreeable leisure time activities. Money-making projects are undertaken by this group so that they may purchase more and better materials and equipment in order that they may expand their hobbies. This club serves a valuable purpose in the school and fills a need in the lives of many students.

That delicious aroma isn't just your imagination; it's the new recipe the girls in the home ec. room are trying out. These girls, America's future cooks and home managers, are getting a very good start here. They are learning new ideas in cooking, sewing and homemaking. Each year the F. H. A. packs baskets of good things and visits the Children's Convalescent Home at Large before Christmas and before Easter in order to brighten the holiday season for the children. Under the proper guidance, these girls and others like them, will be the backbone of America's future home life.

Future Teachers Will Seek To Guide

Among the newly formed clubs in E.-F. H. S. this year is the Future Teachers of America which has as its purpose: "To learn about the opportunities in teaching, to cultivate the qualities essential in a good teacher, to study the lives of great teachers, and to foster the development of student leadership." Any student who is sincerely interested in teaching as a profession and who maintains a "C" average is eligible for membership. The group is affiliated with the Pennsylvania State Education Association and the National Education Association. It is hoped that through the activities of this organization more students will be attracted to teaching as a life work.

Our Thespians' Plays

Providing entertainment for our school are the National Thespians Troup 1391 of the National Thespian Society. During the last four years five of the Thespians' activity reports and one picture have been published in the national Dramatics magazine. Any student is eligible for membership after he has accumulated 10 points which may be earned by acting, writing dramas, or working on the stage crew. The initiates are then tapped at a student assembly. The Thespians' activities during the year are varied. The season is opened with the Open House presentation during National Education Week in November. This year the play was "The Great Little Pappino." At Christmas, in conjunction with the band, chorus, and speech class, the Thespians sponsor the Christmas assembly. This year the program included two plays: "Too Much Mistletce" and "The Teen Club's Christmas." Also featured was a tableau depicting scenes from the Christmas story. Thespian Day is an annual event which consists of an assembly of one-act plays and a dance in the evening. The biggest dramatic production is the senior play in the spring. The highlight of each year is the Thespian banquet honoring the senior play cast and all graduating Thespians. At this banquet the "Best Thespian" is announced. This person must have accumulated 40 points over the initial 10 for admittance. The Thespians not only gain invaluable experience and self-assurance, but they also know the thrill of bringing pleasure to others through their productions.

The Honor Society Has A Bright New Glow

The Honor Society which is a new club this year has as its purpose: "To create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage development of character in students of Elizabeth-Forward High School." Membership, which is based on scholarship, service, leadership, and character, is of three kinds: probationary, active, and graduate. Probationary members who maintain high standards may become active members in the junior year. Active members become graduate members at graduation. Election to the club is by a chapter council consisting of the principal and four members of the faculty. Any faculty member may propose the name of a student eligible for membership. The National Honor Society of Secondary Schools was founded by the National Association of Secondary School Principals in 1921. At the present time there are over 6000 local chapters. The official publication for this group is the magazine, Student Life which is devoted to the projects of all service clubs of the high school. It gives information about the progress of other honor societies and acts as a medium for the exchange of plans and projects. It is hoped that this club will have a good beginning and a prosperous future.

Oriental Gardens

The long-awaited climax of the junior year is always the Prom. In 1956, the theme "Oriental Gardens" was chosen, and the decorations committee worked long tedious hours to give the auditorium an oriental atmosphere. Music was provided by Baron Elliott whose soft rhythmic style added enchantment to the "Gardens" as the couples glided around the floor. Queen Sara and her court reigned graciously over this fairy-tale wonderland among the swirling gowns of the beautiful girls and their handsomely attired escorts. As the clock struck twelve, the couples departed with lingering memories of their happy evening topmost in their minds. As the years pass, they will always remember the thrills and excitement they felt as they stepped into the lovely Oriental Gardens.

Retiring '55 Queen Agnes Vigilotti and '56 Queen Sara Spate survey their "subjects" just before the coronation.

DEDICATION TO BETSY

Many, many years ago
A carpenter took his rule,
And changed the old O'Neil house
Into a rambling school.

It rested on a hill top
Above the Monga high.
Soon, o'er the roof of Betsy
The "Warrior" flag did fly.

Before long, it was overcrowded
And needed to expand;
So Betsy saved her money,
And bought herself some land.

Now, there is a fine new school
Much better than the old;
But sentiment lies in Betsy
More treasured than fine gold.

So, hats off to the new school!
We're glad you're here at last,
But the seniors dedicate this poem
To the building of the past.
